New and Improved Blanket Packing Gage

We have modified our Blanket Packing Gage with the new and greatly improved pin insulator. In the past some people have had problems with the nylon tipped Allen set for the insulated pin breaking off. This causes the light to be on at all times. With our new improved method of insulating this pin from the body of the gage, a nylon tipped Allen set is no longer required. This will also allow you to tighten the Allen set on the insulated pin much tighter without the chance of shorting out the insulated pin the body. Any of our previous blanket packing gages can be upgraded to this new style insulator for a price of $100.00. We will make all the necessary modifications to change your gage to the improved insulator and repair anything else we see wrong to get your gage back looking and functioning like it did when it was new.
